DISTRICT ATTORNEY ENDORSED FOR JUDGE

County Bar Gives Unanimous Endorsement To Franklin Swart for Second Judge Of San Mateo County

District Attorney Franklin Swart was given the unanimous endorsement of the San Mateo county bar association at the quarterly meeting of that body, held Wednesday evening at the Crystal Springs club house. The members of the association gave their unanimous endorsement to the district attorney as a candidate to the position of superior judge, a position created by the legislature's action in providing a second court for this county.

It was the unanimous opinion of the members of the bar association that the appointment should be given to some member of the association from this county. None of the others who are seeking this appointment are members of the association here, nor are they practicing law in ths county.

The appointment of a judge for the new court will be made by Governor Rolph, and it is thought that that recommendation of the bar association of this county should have considerable weight with the chief executive in making his appointment.

An interesting talk, on his recent trip around the world, was given the members of the association by Attorney Lee T. Ross.

BIDS RECEIVED FOR GOLDEN GATE BRIDGE

Construction of Bridge Will Start in August Is Expectation

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17 (UP)—The Gilden Gate bridge across San Francisco to Marin county, can be built for less than $31,000,000, directors of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District announced after bids for construction work had been opened here late today.

Construction of the bridge, expected to start in August, will cost about $24,243,953, on the basis of low bids offered, which is $3,000,000 less than estimates. An additional sum of $5,500,000 will be necessary for bond interest, carrying charges and engineering fees.

"We are happy to announce that the bids covering the entire structure are below $25,000,000," William P. Filmer, president of the district, said. "This means that the bridge can be built for $31,000,000, leaving a reserve of $4,000,000 in the bonds voted by the district last fall.'

It is expected that contracts will be let shortly after July 10.

Low bidders were: — For steel superstructure: McClintic Marshall Corporation, San Francisco, $10,494,000.

For steel cables—American Cable Company of Chicago, $6,255,767.

Piers and fenders—Pacific Bridge Company of Portland, Ore., $2,260,000.

Presidio road and viaduct—Barrett & Hilp, $966,180.

Suasalito road—Frederickson and Watson Company of San Carlos, $76,240.

Race Track Ban Would Not Effect Tanforan Course

Only Proposed Tracks Outside Of Cities Could Be Controlled

Opposition continued to be expressed by members of the Woodside district toward the proposed $2,000,000 race track which Gene Normile has planned for this section. The track would adjoin the property of the Menlo Park Golf and Country Club.

Normile seeks permission from the state corporation commission to sell $487,000 worth of stocks of a $1,000,000 issue. He also has a lease on a 200-acre track from S. Y. Monckton of Redwood City calling for four annual payments of $5000 each. He also has an option to buy the property for $210,000, $50,000 down and five equal installments of $32,000, payable annually.

The ordinance proposed by District Attorney Swart and ordered prepared by the board of supervisors Monday for the regulation of horse racing or other forms of racing in this county will not affect the Tanforan track, as that track is within the city limits of San Bruno. It would affect any track either present or future seeking to operate outside of any incorporated district.

Exchangites View Motion Pictures of South America

Motion pictures of a trip through Central and South America were shown members of the Redwood City Exchange Club Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of the club. The pictures were shown by George Green of Mayfield, who took them while on a trip through the southern continent last year. He also told of his experiences on the trip. The meeting prover a very interesting one to the Exchangites. The chairman of the evening was J. H. Poole.

Wednesday evening at the Sequoia Hotel, Edward Holmquist was elected president of the Yomecan Club; Elvin Guglielmoni, vice-president; Stanley Netherton, secretary; Edwin Brooks, treasurer; Walter Kellogg, Jr., historian, and Lawrence Drivon and Charles Ervin, directors. These will be installed at the meeting of the club, next Wednesday.

Frank Delucchi was presented with the silver cup for the championship in the Inter-Service Club Golf Tournament. The club was very pleased over the showing made by their members who participated in this affair.

A letter was read from the Executive Committee of the Kiku Matsuri and the club agreed to go the limit in making their part in this festival a success.

R. W. Simcock, executive secretary of the San Mateo County Young Men's Christian Association, gave a very interesting talk on the subject "The Challenge to Service."

Shortridge Talks To Veterans at Menlo Hospital

P. A. Elks Hold Memorial Services at Base Hospital

Hundreds from all parts of the peninsula attended the Flag Day exercises at the veterans' hospital last Sunday afternoon, under the auspices of Palo Alto Lodge of Elks.

On the green lawns 'neath the wide spreading oaks the program was rendered. The speaker of the day was United States Senator Samuel M. Shortridge. He delivered an eloquent patriotic address during which he paid a splendid tribute to the valor of the boys who answered their country's call at the out-break of the World war. The senator declared that he supported all measures in Washington looking to the welfare and comfort of the veterans pledged his assistance to the cause of the soldier. Mr. Shortridge said that while the United States was at peace with the world, expecting no clash with any other nation, yet as chairman of naval committees, he was able to say that the country was ready and prepared to defend itself against the invader, that the navy was able to defend the country in any crisis. Mr. Shortridge's tribute to the flag was a splendid effort, eloquent and patriotic. He urged loyalty at all times to the noble emblem of liberty and justice.

Howard L. Cobb, exalted ruler of the Palo Alto Lodge of Elks, was pleased by the big turn-out and feels that all owe their gratitude to Colonel Lasche, head of the hospital, for placing the grounds at the disposal of those in charge of the day's celebration. The arrangements were carried out perfectly. The program was as follows:

"Stars and Stripes Forever," Palo Alto Union High School Band.

Inutroductory exercises, exalted ruler and officers.

Auditor Eaves? Never Knew Him

Suit Against County Names Auditor Albert Eaves Defendant

Who is this man? That's what members of the county government are wondering. The man in question is Albert T. Eaves, county auditor of San Mateo County, who is named in a suit for $6016.28 filed yesterday by the Tilden Lumber and Mill company.

Now, as all know, the auditor of this county is Edward M. Stack, and why Albert T. Eaves should be sued for what this county does is beyond the ken of the county officials.

The suit names as defendants, in addition to the aforesaid Auditor Eaves, the board of supervisors, Harry Jenkens, county treasurer of this county, Sorenson & Haagmark, contractors on the new wing of the Community hospital, and several others. The suit is for lumber which it is claimed was sold for the county's hospital, but not paid for.

Pea Pickers Jailed for Breaking Game Laws

V. Calip and P. Campo, pea pickers of Pescadero, were arrested last Wednesday by Game Warden Lough of this county, for violation of the state game laws. They were sentenced by Justice of the Peace A. W. Woodhams of Pescadero, to pay fines of $25 each or to spend 10 days in the county jail. Both men are serving the jail sentences.

Was This A Hoax?

Thirty years ago there appeared in the Times-Gazette a story of the finiding of a small barrel floating on the bay and containing a note purporting to be from Andre, the daring balloonist, who sought to discover the north pole, and who was never heard of until his outfit was discovered within recent months.

In the barrel was a note which read:

Iceland, November 1, 1899.

Balloon wrecked. Finder please put in newspaper. No hope of getting out alive.

Yours truly,
ANDRE."

The barrel was found floating near the end of deep water road by Alexander Hanson, and according to the account, gave the appearance of having been in the water for a long time.

The fact that Andre's outfit was found wrecked on Rangel Island and not in Iceland leads to the belief that the note was a hoax perpetrated by someone at the time of the Andre attempt to reach the pole.

The matter was submitted to the United States Geological Survey, and the members of the crew here were of the opinion that it would be almost impossible for an object to drift from Iceland or any point in the North Atlantic ocean to a point on the California coast. To do so it would have to be carried down the coast of Europe and across the Atlantic to the eastern coast of South America down the east coast to Cape Horn, through the Straight of Magellan, and up the west coast of South America to the equatorial zone where it would cross the Pacific to Asia, follow up the coast to Asia to the Japan current then cross the Pacific in the north and enter the Golden Gate. A long journey and not likely to have been made in the two years between the date of the letter and the finding of the barrel. However, strange things have happened, and it may be that the note was actually sent out by the famed explorer.

Where is that note now?

SCHOOL BUS CRASH LEADS TO CHECK-UP OF SCHOOLS

State Motor Vehicle Department Conducts Study of All Machines Used by Schools in County of Fresno; Others to Follow

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Corresdondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 18 (UP)—Which will be the next California county to have school bus tragedy like that of Merced?

Unless drastic steps are taken to prevent it, other accidents like the one that recently claimed the lives of seven children are bound to occur, according to a recent investigation of school bus condition in Fresno county.

In this county 25 school buses were checked, and it was found the ages of drivers ran from 27 to 60 years, with the average about 37. Their experience was from 1 to 25 years, or an average of 6 years.

These 25 buses crossed railroad tracks 120 times daily, an aveage of four to the vehicle. With a capacity of 793 passengers, they carried an overload ranging from one to 31 children.

"Most of the brakes were found to be in good condition," said Victon Killick, statistician of the state division of motor vehicles. Tires were generally good, but four buses had no fire extinguisher, an absolute essential in case an accident should pin several children under a bus and it should burst into flames."

Three of the busses had boys who advanced across railroad intersections and signaled when the way was clear. Two buses followed this practice on foggy mornings.

Siminar investigations are to be conducted in Turale, Kern, San Joaquin and Madera counties.

The state board of education will adopt a set of rules for regulation of all school buses at its next meeting, according to Vierling Kersey, state superintendent of public instruction.

These rules will include the following: — Thorough periodical inspection of all motor equipment used to transport children; strict adherence to the brake efficiency requirements of the state motor vehicle act; enforcement of maximum pupil load for buses as fixed by the school boards; equipment of vehicles with adequate horns and other safety devices; physical examination for all drivers. requiring operator to report daily to school principal the condition of vehicle operated by him; holding operator responsible for strict observance of state motor vehicle act.

Services Held for Mrs. W. Hendricks

Mrs. May Hendricks, wife of W. W. Hendricks, deputy county surveyor in the office of former County Surveyor George A. Kneese, passed away in San Francisco last Friday, following a lingering illness. In addition to her sorrowing husband, Mrs. Hendricks leaves to mourn her loss three children, W. W., Jr., Robert and Dorothy Hendricks, her mother, Mrs. Mary E. McCarthy and a brother, Thomas L. McCarthy of San Francisco. She was born in Los Angeles and made her home at 54 Hillview avenue in this city for the past five years. Mrs. Hendricks was beloved by a large circle of friends and much sorrow is being expressed over her passing.

The funeral was held Monday morning from the parlors of McBrearty & McCormick in San Francisco, thence to St. Agnes Church, where a requiem high mass was celebrated at 9:30 o'clock for the repose of her soul. Interment followed in Holy Cross cemetery.

Kiwanians Hear of Railroad Methods

Railroading in France and America was the topic of an interesting address by Dr. Roy Labachotte of this city, before members of the Redwood City Kiwanis Club, at the regular weekly meeting of that organization Wednesday. Dr. Labachotte was for many years connected with railroading in this country, having been both brakeman and conductor. At the time of the war he was made a member of a railroading division in France.

Dr. Labachotte told of the means used by railroad men to communicate with each other from one end of the train to the other, of the safety systems employed by railroads here and other points of interest, connected with the railroad business. He also told of the differences in railroad practice in this country and France and of some of the difficulties met by the American trainmen in operating the French trains.

An interesting relic of the war was shown the clubmen by Dr. Labachotte. It was the face of the station clock at St. Mehiel, France. The clock was a large one and the face was torn by German shrapnel.

The chairman of the meeting was John Layng. An element of fun was injected into the meeting by a mock trial in which Gilbert Ferrell and Edward I. McAuliffe acted as the attorneys.

Sheriff Raids Whiskey Joint In Ravenswood

Three Arrested During Search For Narcotics; Liquor Found and Seized

A raid was made Wednesday night by Sheriff McGrath and a posse of officers upon an establishment in the Ravenswood district where, it was believed, narcotics and liquor were being sold to inmates of the United States base hospital at Menlo Park.

The raid was requested by officers of the state narcotic division, and was made by the three state officers, Sheriff McGrath, Deputy Sheriff Joe Meeks, Deputy Sheriff Leland Quinlan, Chief of Police Edward Farrell of Atherton Chief of Police Love of Menlo Park.

The place raided was a house near the base hospital. The officers found a number of people at the place including several women. Only three who appeared to be proprietors of the establishment were taken into custody. The names of the others were taken by the officers.

The officers arrested and booked at the county jail J. P. Martin and John A. Murray who are charged with violation of the Wright act; and Ware Brown charged with violation of the gun law.

Quanties of gin, whiskey and beer were found by the officers and were confiscated. A thorough search of the house by the state officers, however, failed to disclose any cache of narcotics.

Martin was released on bail, the other two were held at the county jail until yesterday afternoon, when all three appeared in the court of Judge Edward I. McAuliffe. Brown had pleaded guilty when first arrested; the other two had pleaded not guilty, but changed their pleas to guilty, yesterday, when they appeared in court.

All three were represented by Attorneys Gilbert Ferrell and Fred Comba. Richard Bell, assistant district attorney, acted as prosecutor. Upon the request of Attorney Ferrell, that Martin and Murray, who were not residents of the county, be sent out of the county instead of being sent to jail, Judge McAuliffe fined them $500 or a sentence of 100 days in jail, but suspended the sentence on the provision that they get out of the county and remain away for a period six months. Brown, a resident of Menlo Park, was fined $500 or given the alternative of 100 days in jail.

S.F. Youth Dies Under Cliff on County's Coast

Falling Bank Buries Boy On Sand after Swim at Salada Beach

Peter Cardona, 20, of 4034 Fulton street, San Francisco, was killed at Salada Beach, Tuesday, when a 20-foot cliff broke loose and fell upon him. Cardona had gone swimming with H. B. Hooker, 20, of 638 12th street. While Hooker was swimming in the surf, Cardona lay down on the sand at the base of a cliff. The bank collapsed, burying the youth beneath a mound of rock and earth. Hooker ran for help and a rescue crew worked for an hour before Cardona's body was recovered.

This is the second case of this sort to occur in this county within the past two years. The other occurred south of Half Moon Bay and resulted in the death of two persons and the serious injury of another.

Funeral services were held in San Francisco yesterday morning for Mrs. Josephine Titus, who for the past 25 years has operated the Elite rooming house on Washington street. Mrs. Titus passed away on Tuesday at the Community hospital, where she had been confined for several months. Interment was in Woodlawn cemetery.

Mrs. Titus was the widow of Dr. I. S. Titus, well-known physician of San Francisco, and for many years public health officer of San Francisco. She is the mother of Harry R. Pedlina, of San Francisco, and the grandmother of Harold W. Pedlina.

JACK ROWELL ILL WITH PNEUMONIA

Jack Rowell, early resident of Belmont and owner of the historic Louis Inn on the old county road at that place, is seriously ill with pneumonia at Mills Memorial hospital in San Mateo. Rowell is well known to older residents of Redwood City and the peninsula. He at one time conducted the hotel at Belmont.

Old Graves Found Back of Belmont Recall Early Days

Four Pioneer Graves Studied By Manager of County Chamber of Commerce

On Saturday June 13, Manager Wyatt of the County Chamber of Commerce, visited the site of four old graves on what was Spring Valley property, near the end of the road (old County Road), which passes the California Sanitarium back of Belmont. Miss Vallie Drake of San Carlos came upon the four graves while riding on the Spring Valley Trail and accompanied the manager of the county chamber to further investigate.

Four graves of early date were found on the hill now covered by scrub oaks and a tangle of brush. The stone at the earliest grave bore the name of Elizabeth Finch, age 34, who died April 24, 1855. On another was Francis M. Meredith, age 23, who died January 7, 1856. On a third stone was Eliza S. Kinnison, age 18, who died September 9, 1858. The fourth stone discloses the burial of an infant son of Wm. D. Harrington and Emily A. Harrington, who died January 10, 1856.

The name of Harrington is the only one, so far, found in the old county records. The father of this infant son, according to the records, must have been a courageous man, for he must have been the W. D. Harrington who was a witness and testified in the famous suit of Ackerson vs. Mulligan, brought to determine the result of the first election held in the new County of San Mateo, that although 297 votes had been polled in Crystal Springs precinct, there were only 25 adult males in the precinct.

Knight Enters Plea; Asks Probation

R. C. Knight, furniture dealer of this city, pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter in the superior court of this county, Tuesday. Knight had pleaded not guilty when first arraigned, and Tuesday had been set as time or trial.

When entering the new plea Knight asked for probation. The matter was submitted to Probation Officer Francis Robinson, who will report to the court in two weeks to make his recommendation.

Knight was arrested on April 20, after an accident on the Bayshore highway, in which one man was killed and three others seriously injured.

A car which was identified as Knight's crashed into the four men as they were crossing the highway, and afterward sped away. It was found later in San Mateo, badly damaged. A hood clip found at the scene of the wreck was found to correspond to those on Knight's machine from which one was missing.

Knight was arrested at his store here two hours after the accident of the Bay Shore. He denied having driven his car, but said that he had leftit parked at the side of his store here and that it had been stolen. Knight told the arresting officers that he had planned to drive to the city, but had met a friend and had gone to a "speak easy" instead and remained there until shortly before he was arrested.

Some of the Pests that Come With the Summer

We ask deliverance from the following pests which come out in all their glory in the summer time:

The idiot who draws up to the curb at any hour of the night or day summoning his "girl friend" substitutes his motor-horn for the door bell.

The almost-as-great idiot who, momentarily halted by traffic regulations to which everybody is subject, sets off a squawking, unceasing horn, making the air hideous.

The man who thinks, or appears to think, that a motor horn is to intimidate instead of warn.

The man who drives his car right up to within a few feet of where people are alighting from or boarding a street car.

The man—a public menace—who persists in driving through the streets and on the highways with only one headlight on his automobile.

The man who drives along the highways at a crawling pace, as though he were leading a funeral, thus causing cutting-in, and inviting accidents.

The neighbor who opens his front door, turns the dial of his radio to the loudest station, and seems to think that his receiving set is a broadcasting set.

And we believe most people will agree with us that this old world would be a happier place in which to live, were it not for these summer pests.

A Point We Don't Get

After almost every gangster killing the papers carry reports which say something to this effect, '_____, known by the police to be the leader of a rival gang of racketeers and rum runners is being sought in connection with the killing." or "the police made a check-up of all liquor-selling resorts in the neighborhood," or "_____, well-known Chicago gang leader was seen aboard a train for Pudunk, shortly before the murder."

Now what we can't figure out is why a rackateer and rum runner can be well-known to the police, and yet be running at large and why if the police known about all the liquor resorts in the neighborhood so that they can conduct such a check-up, the places are not closed.

In the murder of a girl in New York the press reports state that she was seen a few days before at a resort with several gangsters. Al Capone is always spoken of in the news as "well-known Chicago gang leader." A man in San Francisco was shot, and a "beer joint operator" was arrested. What we are watching with interest is, if the man is not convicted of the murder and is turned loose, what will become of the beer joint?

How's Business?

Feel discouraged? Business still in the doldrums? Not fighting mad yet? Then reach for the phone and call a life insurance salesman. When he arrives, tell him you don't guess you need any insurance; then sit back and listen to the man! He is a go-getter, a live wire. Rarely invited to call, he hears more undaunted lies than the income tax collector; to him every last man in the world is broke, poverty stricken—at least we tell him so, and yet, listen: He sells! In good times, in hard times, on rainy days, on beautiful summer Saturday afternoons and at night, he sells a thing to you and me that we can't see, feel, taste, smell, eat, wear or use. The only blessed thing we can do with what he sells us is to brag that we have it and oftimes we have to die to cash in. But we buy it! He makes us want it.

Swim Carefully

With summer here, devotees of swimming find this recreation growing in popularity, as reflected in the facilities provided and the increasing number of pools opened annually.

It has been estimated that there are 3,000 pools in use in the United States, about 200 of which are under the supervision of public schools, 1,600 connected with Y. M's and Y. W's, and the remainder under municipal management.

There are other figures less pleasing concerning the sport of swimming. The cencus bureau estimates that 3,500 persons will be accidently drowned in June, July and August this year. It is amazing, but in the past ten years 60,000 persons were drowned in this country. Of these the age group 15 and 19 years contributed the largest number. The second largest was made up of children between 10 and 14.

The number of drowned steadily increases with each succeeding year, rising with the increase of population.

Are You Prepared?

How would you fight a sudden fire in your home? This is a question that every man, woman and child should be prepared to answer. Year by year as our population increase the toll paid to this evil enemy of mankind grows greater and greater.

Five hundred million dollars a year is the staggering levy exacted by the fire demon, but even this huge sum cannot compensate the victims for their grief and discouragement as they suffer the loss of loved ones and see possessions that cannot be bought with money ruthlessly consumed by the flames.

The knowledge that so much of this loss is preventable does not make it any less bitter. When a fire starts it is an infant, but a few seconds later it may be a roaring monster that overwhelms the puny efforts of unaided human hands.

Preparedness is half the battle. The water bucket and hose are effective if they are immediately available, but often the very incident that started the fire may have rendered the water supply unavailabl.e

Every house, every barn and every apartment in the land should be protected with the simple, inexpensive and efficient hand fire extinguishers that are now available. With them it does not matter if the flames are caused by burning gasoline or other material, because they smother the oxygen supply necessary for the maintenance of the fire. Water may spread such a fire.

Every householder owes it to his family to equip the home with hand fire extinguishers, as many of them as are needed. They should be kept where they can be reached quickly. Everyone in the house should know where they are. You may well thank your heavenly stars some day that you were thus prepared.

More Recklessness

A greater amount of travel appears to have a direct result on the amount of recklessness observed on the streets. We have noticed since the opening of the Bayshore highway into town that there is a great deal of recklessness shown by cars coming off that thoroughfare on Webster and Washington streets Perhaps the exhilaration of speeding down the smooth surface of the new highway is such that it is hard for the motorist to bring himself down to a mere 15 or 20 miles an hour when he comes into Redwood's streets.

Noticing the cross traffic on Washington street, also, one is struck by the number of cars which cross this street without any attention to the arterial stop sign at the intersection.

Redwood City has always had the reputation for being rather a safe town as far as traffic on the streets is concerned. Until the Bayshore road is finished and the travel which is now diverted into the city streets is carried on past this city, the residents of Redwood will do well to watch out when crossing these busy streets.

The economic corner has been turned. We're on our way back to prosperity.

California editors interpreting the signs of the times are, with a few exceptions, confident that the state and the nation have reached the bottom of the "depression" and are on he way to better times.

While this return will admittedly be slow, the fact we have started back is hailed as an encouraging sign. Some even look upon the past two years as something that will, in the future, prove advantageous.

"At last we have stopped dreaming about a return to the pre-slump normal," says the Berkeley Daily Gazette, "and have begun to realize that we must make a new normal. National enterprise has begun to function again, as it never functioned during the late lamented boom when everybody was trying to get rich quick with the least possible expenditure of time and money."

Doubtful that the depression was "the worst ever," The Riverside Daily Press points out that savings banks on the Pacific Coast recently set a new record in time deposits—approximately $2,869,000,000.

The Daily Siskiyou News places another interpretation on this gain in savings, points out that "a peculiar but quite natural blend of fear and thrift has sealed this money away from its real mission—to end hard times and restore us to normal prosperity."

Lauding Chicago's 10-day celebration as a means of "laughing the depression away," The Vallejo Times-Herald believed that all the country needs is a "tonic to awaken people from the slough of despondency."

Under the heading "Business Starts Upward," The Oroville Mercury Register quotes a series of predictions made by prominent business men and journals and points out that such unanimity of professional opinion "is significant" and encouraging. And the Visalia Times-Delta believes "there is optimism in the air."

In quoting Charles M. Schwab, head of a great steel corporation, the Anaheim Bulletin lauds the contention that "one of the most encouraging facts is that the country has met the depression with much less fear, less distress and more intelligence than in any other period of hard times."

In support of this the Bulletin points out that "panic may be defined as yielding to fear and there has been no panic during this period of depression, serious though it has been."

Admitting that the betterment in business is slight and that it is more or less spotted, the Pasadena Star-News says: "There are gains in some places and no gains in other regions—yet, gauging conditions and prospects now with the corresponding time and conditions in economic depressions of the past, the evidences of certain betterment this year are plentiful."

Right thinking is everything, and if the children are taught to think rightly, we need have no fear for the future peace of the world.—Lady Astor.

GAY ADVENTURERS

"Hooray," shouted Sheila .... "What luck!"

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS

SHEILA ALLEN, bound for Europe in a tourist cabin, has a cabinmate,

CONSTANCE KERR, a millionaire's daughter, who is her twin in looks. Sheila, after years in a rural town, is seeking adventure.

She has refused to marry her guardian, YOUNG DOCTOR MALCOM BAXTER. Constance tells Sheila she is Heaven-sent-a means of escape from a terrible mess.

Constance is fleeing from her husband, THE COUNT DE BELLEFONTE, whom she married that morning.

She consented to marry him ,after a quarrel with HARRY EDMONDS, with whom she is desperately in love.

His letters begging her forgiveness are kept from her by her mother. She finds them immediately after her marriage. Realizing that she can never be the Count's wife, she takes passage for Europe at once. Harry is in England.

She begs Sheila to impersonate her in Paris for a few days, while she seeks Harry in London, to try to find a way out of her muddle.

Sheila, scenting adventure agrees.

Constance gives Sheila her clothes and coaches her for the role she is to play. A first-class passenger.

TOMMY FITZGERALD, an old beau of Constance's, sees Sheila and hails her as Constance. Sheila tells him he has made a mistake.

At Southampton Constance leaves the ship as Sheila Allen, with all of Sheila's effects, including her passport.

At Harve, Fitzgerald sees Sheila with Constance's passport and she says she is the heiress, and explains the tourist passage as payment of a bet. A strange woman embraces her as an old friend.

There she receives a message from the Count, who is in Paris.

Harry Edmonds arrives in Paris. Sheila is panic-stricken. She wonders where Constance is.

To escape both Harry and the Count, she feigns illness. Some one informs her aunt in Baden-Baden that her neice is ill. The aunt radios Mr. Kerr, who radios Sheila that he is coming to Paris.

Chapter 21—

Seeing Paris

The next morning Sheila decided that she was going to see Paris. Waiting at the hotel would not bring Constance Kerr any sooner, and it was only the arrival of the heiress that would straighten out the tangled situation.

Leaving the hotel before breakfast, for she wanted to find a little restaurant where she could order a typically French repast, she strolled into the Palace Vendome. Already the sidewalks were crowded. On all sides Sheila could hear English spoken in the American manner.

"And Constance Kerr told me there wouldn't be any one in Paris at this time of year,' she reflected. Then she chuckled to herself as her imagination constructed a situation in which she was hailed simultaneously by two persons, one a friend of Constance's the other some one from her own town. "And Constance's friend would say: 'Why Constance Kerr, when did you arrive?' and my friend would say: 'Hello, Sheila Allen! Fancy meeting you here.' That would be perfect, only I hope it never happens." Sheila's musings ended abruptly in the middle of the street, and she leaped from the path of a taxi.

"Hey, Constance Wait a sec'," shouted a voice.

Sheila looked back and saw a dandified young man emerging from the taxi. He turned to assist a gray-haired, fashionably-dressed woman to alight. Sheila hidn't the slightest idea who these people might be, and she didn't wait to find out. She continued her flight. Pausing at last under a sign-post, she read the words. "Boulevard des Italiens." A few doors from the corner was a small restaurant.

"I'll breakfast here," said Sheila, "if that fright hasn't completely destroyed my appetite. Am I the person who complained that nothing exciting ever happened. Am I the girl who wanted adventure?"

The waiter had just served Sheila with black, bitter coffee, a tiny pitcher of milk, and a long, hard roll, when the restaurant door was flung open. Sheila looked up to see the dandified young man and the gray-haired woman bearing down upon her. She looked around helplessly, but escape was impossible.

"Constance, darling," cried the woman. "You, of all people. I knew it was you, but Rags insisted it wasn't. We tried to hail you a little way back, from a cab, but you didn't hear us. So I said to Rags, 'I bet she's going to Maurice's for breakfast. When Constance is seen on the street before noon, that's where she's bound for.' So we came right along, and——"

"Yes," said Sheila, "you were right." Inwardly she was saying: "And who are you, and what does this Rags person represent?"

Rags was nothing, if not well-dressed and cheerful. He seated his companion at Sheila's table and took a chair himself, beaming down at both women.

"Constance," he said, "do tell Nellie about the time we came here after dancing all night, and you bet me I couldn't eat onion soup au gratin and hard-boiled eggs for breakfast. But I did, and oh, what a combination "

"Rags," snapped Nellie, "keep still and let me talk to Constance."

Rags subsided, and Nellie went on: "Constance, that story about your being ill — what does that mean? I rushed to your hotel this morning to ask if there was anything I could do, and you weren't there. But I saw the Count de Bellfonte, who seems to have taken up a permanent post in the lobby, and he was most anxious to see you."

"Yes," said Shiela faintly," I know That report was an error."

"Well, now, that's just splendid," said Nellie, with the air of one who isn't at all satisfied with explanations, but is willing to let the matter rest. "Your mother's old friend, the Baronne de Courcy, called me up last night. Some one had told her you were here, and she does so want you to spend some time with her at her place in Cannes. Rags and I may be there, and a charming young man you've never met — the Baronne's stepson. You'll doubtless find a note waiting for you when you go back to the hotel."

"Of course," answered Sheila, her one thought being to get away.

"By the way," asked Rags, "where are your father and mother? Do they know you're in Paris?"

Shiela groaned inwardly. She didn't care to be reminded of the fact that Mr. Kerr was coming to Paris. That, and the fact that Constance had failed to appear, together with the jealous attentions of Harry and Bellfonte, complicated life unbearably.

"I must be getting back to the hotel," said Shiela, ignoring Rags's question. "I've lots of things to do. Call around and see me. So long."

As she entered her suite, her maid handed her a radiogram. With a sinking sensation in the region of her heart, she opened the envelope, but her dismay changed to unutterable relief as she read:

"Yacht disabled off coast of Sicily. Impossible to come as planned. Advise me at Flavia as to your health. Hope Aunt Sophia is with you now.

"Father."

"Horray," shouted Shiela. "Marooned! What luck!"

Aunt Sophia was not marooned, however. She was at large and most indignant, as the telegram that arrived a few minutes later showed. It was sent "collect," and partook of the nature of a letter. Sheila laughed aloud as she read:

"What are you up to young lady? First I receive a message that you are ill; then I receive another that you are not. This morning I received still another insisting that I come to you in Paris. Well, I won't. You can't play jokes on me. You'll have to send me a doctor's certificate before I budge from here.

"Aunt Sophia."

"Well," said Shiela, "I can breath freely once more. Now, as soon as Constance appears — and she must come in a day or two — everything will be serene."

She was so jubilant that even the appearance of her maid to announce the arrival of the Baronne de Courcy did not disturb her. The Baronne was large and impressive. She had the manner of one who is accustomed to having her own way.

"My dear, my dear," she exclaimed. "This is luck. I want you to come with me to Cannes. A little house-party in honor of my stepson who is just out of the army. Such a charming boy. Now don't look alarmed. I know you think I'm an old match-maker. Maybe I am. Well, we'll see what happens. I'm sure Carl will simply adore you, and——"

Shiela was still listening to a dissertation on Carlo when Harry Edmonds appeared to take her to dinner and to the opera. She told him of the Baronne's invitation as they left the hotel. He roared with laughter. "The old dragon wants to marry you off to that half wit, Carlo," he said. "No, Constance, you'd better not go to Cannes. Let's get married tomorrow and go to London. I've got to get back on the job. What do you say?"

BUILDERS OF CALIFORNIA

Harry too, is on the job
500 miles away

He may never see the rising buildings that help to pay his wages. For Harry Smith is one of thousands — in office, factory, forest, mine and mill — who are essential to every construction project.

Each new building creates income for many men and industries. A bungalow may require 100 materials and manufactured products; a skyscraper, 1,000 or more.

The vital importance of this industry is suggested by California's building permits, totalling four billion dollars in the past 10 years. Most of this money was spent for materials and wages.

Indirectly benefiting every family, construction is normally the livelihood of more than 100,000 men in this state.

Bank of America has worked shoulder-to-shoulder with these Builders of California—has helped finance thousands of homes and other buildings throughout the state; has invested and underwritten millions in bonds for public works, schools, and state, county and city improvements.

And today—with building costs the lowest in 10 years—Bank of America encourages economically-sound construction. You are cordially invited to discuss with any officer of this Bank, the financing of a home or any needed project.

PORTLAND GOLF COURSE OFFERS BIG HAZARDS

PORTLAND, Ore., June 18 (UP)—The Western Amateur Golf Championship, which will be played here July 13-18 will be conducted on a real championship layout. The Portland Golf Club course, scene of the tournament, is beautiful but difficult.

From the back tees during the championship the course will measure 6,425 yards with a par of 35-37—72. Already Portland golf culb members are predicting that par very likely will be broken but few times despite the presence of such luminaries as John Lehman, present Western amateur champion and Pan-American champion; Dr. O. F. Willing, Portland, Walker cup star; Frank Dolp, Portland, ex-Western amateur champion; Eddie Hogan, Portland, Northwest champion; Charles H. "Chick" Evans, many times champion, and Cyril Tolley, former British champion.

Seven come eleven will mean more than dice terms to Western amateur entrants this year. These holes on the sporty Portland layout probably will ruin many scores. The seventh hole is 355 yards long and the tee is on a high knoll. A 230- or 240-yard drive carries within 20 or 30 yards of a lake. The pitch over the lake to the pin is about 125 yards. To the right and back of the green is a run-off ditch. It is a par four.

The same lake, broadened out forms a natural hazard in front of the 11th tee. The hole is 376 yards long and the carry over the lake is about 110 yards. Rough and trees on the right of the fairway are demoralizing to scores and morale. A 200-yard tee shot will reach the foot of a steep hill leading to the green. The remaining 176 yards frequently is a full iron or spoon, depending on conditions.

There are 50 traps on the Portland course and water hazards in 19 places. In mid-July the rough will be long and practically cost a shot to those inclined to hook or slice. Fairways also will be narrow. From the back tees it will be the extremely long hitter only who can reach the four par 5 holes in two shots.

The field this year will be formidable, according to Harry G. Haugsten, chairman of the publicity committee for the tournament. Besides those mentioned, entry blanks have been sent to Ira Couch, Illinois state and Chicago district champion; Charles Seaver, semi-finalist in the last national amateur; Lawson Little, California state champion; H. P. McCracken, Trans-Pacific champion; Malcolm MacNaughton, intercollegiate champion; Eddie Held, Canadian champion; P. Phillips Perkins, ex-British champion, and several other golfers of national and sectional prominence.

SPEAKING of SPORT

"Sparky" Adams Big Aid In Keeping Pirates On Top

Earl J. Adams — "Sparky" to baseball fans — is doing his bit in the fight of the St. Louis Cardinals for their second consecutive National League pennant.

The midget Adams, who has had indifferent success during his ten years in the major leavues, is plugging the gap that most experts predict would prove the weak spot of Manager Gabby Street's 1931 club —third base.

Adams not only has been fielding his position in excellent style but he has been one of the big guns of the St. Louis batting attack. He is hitting well over .300, but what is more important, most of his hits have come when team-mates were on the bases.

And in addition to his base hits, Adams has a knack for drawing bases on balls. He is small and stocky and hard to pitch to. As a lead-off man Street apparently has Adams in his ideal spot, for even the grizzled old manager of the Cardinals will admit that Adams has done as much as anyone else in keeping St. Louis at the top of the National League.

Rated As Ordinary Fielder Last Year

Adams' performances are all the more unusual because when he came to St. Louis last year he was rated as no better than an ordinary infielder who could play ether second, or third base, or shortstop and do just a good enough job to get by. He played all three positions for Pittsburg in 1929 and finished the season hitting .260.

Last season his average perked up to the satisfactory figure of .314 in the 137 games played with St. Louis. And in addition, he led the third basemen in the league for infielding.

Just how important Adams has been in the Cardinals' success this season can be judged from the fact that no time this year has St. Louis been able to place its eight regulars on the field at the same time. Chick Hafey, Frankie Frisch and Jim Bottomley have been out of the lineup at various stages, and had it not been for the brilliant play of Adams the Cardinals probably would find themselves a long way from the league leadership.

If Adams continues his present pace, and the Cardinals annex the 1931 pennant, it would be a pretty safe bet to say that Adams was one of the main reasons that the club won the championship.

Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

Eve started it and the daughters of Eve inherited it. Eve gave Adam the apple, and it seems that Adam must have passed it on. For every man and every woman has an Adam's Apple. Put your finger on your Adam's Apple —that is your larynx, your voice box — it contains your vocal chords. Consider your Adam's Apple —when you do so, you are considering your throat—your vocal chords. Don't rasp your throat with harsh irritants. Reach for a LUCKY instead. Here in America LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette which brings you the added benefit of the exclusive "TOASTING" Process, which includes the use of modern Ultra Violet Rays. It is this exclusive process that expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. These expelled irritants are sold to manufacturers of chemical compounds. "Y" Camp at Pescadero Is Filling Up Fast

Few Places Left in Boys' Camping Resort on Coastside

The demand for places at Camp Yu-Mi-Ci-A near Pescadero is greater than ever before according to Roy A. Hohberger, the local secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association. Although the first week for the boys of the peninsula does not start until the 28th, there are very few places left to fill the camp to capacity. The second week which starts July 5th also has but a limited number of places which are open to reservation.

The camp has made some very outstanding steps forward in equipment and area this year. Heretofore boys of all ages have had their camping area together. With the permit to use a larger section of the Memorial Park, two camp areas have been set up, one for boys 9 to 12 years of age and the other for those 12 to 16. In all the camps of the Association an effort is made to give the boys as much personal attention as possible so that the aim of this organizations camping program may be more fully realized, namely character development. With the new plan the number in each area will be kept down to sixty or less. Each section will be in charge of a camp director of many years of experience in camping with boys and a corps of leaders who have been picked because of their special interest in boys and their desire to be of helpfulness to them. In addition to more than doubling the regular camp area, a play-field of three or four acres is being developed which will be the sunshine area. A dam has been put in which will insure a pool adequate for the camp needs for swimming. The camp has been wired for electric lights. A new system of dish-washing has been installed with stationary tubs with a system of hot and cold water.

The kitchen is in charge of a competent chef who has had experience in cooking for boys and who has the faculty of preparing wholesome food that is tasty and attractive.

This camp is open to all boys between the ages of 9 and 16, there being no requirement of membership in any club group. It is felt by the committee in charge that this camp with its fine equipment is within reach of practically every bof with the fee at $7 per week, a boy having the privilege of staying either one or two weeks.

Full information can be secured by calling Roy A. Hohberger at Redwood 974.

Star Reporter Wins Promotion

Herewith the Times-Gazette introduces George H. Beale, United Press staff correspondent, whose famous signed stories on important western news events are going to become increasingly familiar to readers

Beale, one of the best known western writers, has landed the assignment that all newspaper writers dream of, but few ever land. Beginning at once, he has been designated by United Press as its "roving" writer in the Pacific division.

The assignment means that wherever big news is breaking in the west, Beale will go to that spot in person. He will use every means of transportation to be at the source of the news—airplane, ship, train or automobile. His only duties will be to get there and get there quick—then start his stories moving for readers of this newspaper.

Beale's stories have been an important part of the news service of United Press in the past, but the full value of his ability as a writing man has not been available because of executive duites which have occupied much of his time. As news manager of the Pacific division for the past six months, he has been in charge of directing the entire news report to western papers. Prior to his assumption of that position he was Los Angeles bureau manager.

Now, relieved of all other duties, he will devote his entire time to covering and writing news of major importance. Readers of this paper will soon learn to watch eagerly for his stories.

Big Sum Paid In Inheritance Tax

$100,041 Paid by County Into State Treasury For Tax On Estates

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 18 — (UP)—San Mateo county paid a total of $100,041 in California's state treasury from inheritance tax collections during 1930.

According to Ray L. Riley, state controller, inheritance taxes represent one of the important sources of revenue with the 58 counties paying a total of $8,548,360.58 to the state during 1930.

This amount represents an increase over the $7,142,964 collected from estates in 1929, but is still below the $11,272,179 paid into the state treasury from inheritance taxes in 1928.

Representing an important income source, the inheritance tax is, in the opinion of Riley, basically fair and not a particular burden.

"Statistics have shown that an inheritance tax reaches property but once in 30 years, and that the amount collected thereon is approximately 4 per cent," Riley stated.

The controller further pointed out that in the United States, where the inheritance tax rate is the lowest in the world, California's rate compares favorably with other states and has been responsible for attracting many wealthy families to the state.

Los Angeles leads the list with the payment of $4,923,967.57 in inheritance taxes, while Trinity county is the only one making no such collection and payment.

While these taxes represent the major item in the financial transactions carried on by the individual counties for the state, other items pring the total collections up to $9,403,836.82.

The second most important payment is for the teachers' permanent fund, amounting to $406,944.03 in 1930. Other items include the sale of state lands and redemptions.

The total payment to the state also includes payments for the support of states schools for boys and birls, the narcotics home at Spadra and similar institutions to which patients are sent by the various counties.

Migratory Child School Problem For California

Fortyfour Migratory Children Listed in San Mateo County

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, June 18—(UP)—California leads the country in the solution of the problem of educating the so-called migratory children.

This is the contention of Lillian B. Hill, chief of the state bureau of migration schools, who points out that state laws have made special provisions for the children of wandering parents, while many other states virtually ignore their existence.

Proof that these migratory children do constitute a serious educational "problem" is seen in the report issued by the state department of education, showing that there are 26,688 such minors in the state.

Of this number, San Mateo county has 44 migratory children, or 0.3 per cent of the children in the county under 18 years of age.

The migratory child represents one of the results of the attraction California holds for the seasonal worker who travels up and down the state aiding in the harvesting of the different crops.

"California's position is unique inasmuch as crops are harvested throughout the calendar year," Mrs. Hill stated. "As a result the seasonal laborer is 'on the go' most of the year, with the possible exception of parts of January and December. Necessarily his children must attend several schools during the year."

Mrs. Hill further pointed out that the state is empowered to require counties to establish schools for the migratory children, with the state joining in the payment of the teachers' salaries.

During 1930 a total of $7,056 was spent from the state migratory fund, while $5,235 had been spent up to April of this year.

According to the state records, Fresno county with 2,721, has the most migratory children, but the percentage rate is higher in Imperial county, where 2,412 migratory children represent 15.1 per cent of the county's population under 18 years of age, as compared to the average per centage in the state of 19.

The young couple are to reside in the city, where the broom is employed as clerk with the Southern Pacific company.

Next Wednesday will be a big day in the lives of Mrs. Louise Hebert and James E. Murray, for on that date they are to be married in the Church of the Natifity. Mr. Murray is the well-known bachelor and capitalist and farmer, and a son of the late J. J. Murray, a pioneer of this community. The prospective bride is an unusually beautiful young woman, possessing a chaming and bewitching manner that makes and holds friends. The honeymoon is to be spent in Oregon.

A. E. Thomas, a former resident of Menlo Park, is here on a visit to friends. He will return shortly for his home in Corvallis, Ore. For many years he has been a familiar figure on the race tracks.

Saturday evening the Partee home, near Santa Cruz avenue, was badly damaged by fire, which it is said, started from defective wiring. The family was asleep in the rear porch and did not discover the flames until a good headway had been gained by the fire. The Menlo fire department responded to a call and promptly put out the fire, but not before the house was badly gutted and partly ruined. The home was insured. It is said the damage will amount to about $2000. The insurance company has agreed to restore the building.

Father Welch, a former assistant pastor here, was in Menlo Park during the week, bidding his friends farewell, prior to his leaving for his home in Ireland, next week. He goes back to visit his aged mother, who is advanced in years and who wants to see her son before the end comes. Father Welch will drop off at Philadlpheia to greet his brother, who is in charge of a large parish there. Both priests are expected to be in Ireland for three months.

Week at the Capitol

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 18—(UP)—Doomed to death on the gallows on June 26, Governor Rolph's 31st wedding anniversary, Frank Franco, sentenced for killing Tony Andrade in a dispute over a $5 bill, received a 90-day reprieve at the governor's hands.

Soon thereafter the governor pardoned Fayett D. Marble, 21, son of a Pasadena millionaire who was convicted for manslaughter for killing three persons with his automobile. The youth faced a prison term of from one to 10 years.

The pardon was recommended by Dan O'Brien director of penology who investigated the case by nine of the 12 jurors who convicted the youth and by relatives of all three victims.

In January Governor Rolph whose desk is littered with unanswered letters ordered a canvas cloth thrown over the desk so it wouldn't be disturbed when he went on air trips.

One day, in a hurry, he spread another layer of leters on the canvas, so that week-end he ordered cheese bloth spread over that layer.

The layers have piled up so that there are now four spearate strata of mail, separated by cloth. From June 22 to 29 the governor is taking a week's vacation at his San Mateo ranch, and will spend it working on his mail.

California's modern crime-catching system, the teletype will be dedicated July 14, when Governor Rolph sends the first message from the state bureau of criminal identification here.

It will be relayed to each of the points on the circuit, which include Red Bluff, Yreka, Truckee, Oakland, San Francisco, San Rafael, Eureka, Salinas, San Luis Obispo, Fresno, Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, and El Centro.

A salvo of 17 guns greeted Governor Fred B. Balzar of Nevada, when h ecalled at the state capitol this week to pay his respects to "Sunny Jim" Rolph and recommended that the governor sign the bill substituting the lethal gas chambers in California for the gallows in murder cases.

Governor Balzar was accompanied by Warden Matt Penrose of Nevada state prison, also in favor of the measure.

Ring out, wild bells! California is at last to have an "avifaunal emblem." For Governor Rolph has signed the bill making the California quail the official state bird. The measure was introduced by Assemblywoman Eleanor Miller of Pasadena.

Carole Lombard and Norman Foster in a scene from the comedy sensation "UP POPS THE DEVIL," playing at the Fox Sequoia Theatre Saturday night only. In this all-star cast we also find Stuart Erwin, "Skeets" Gallagher and Lillian Tashman.

Politically Speaking

POLITICALLY SPEAKING.... ....
By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 18—(UP)—Twice in the same week, Governor Rolph ignored the finger of warning raised by Rolland A. Vandegrift, state director of finance, and signed measures calling for expenditure of $1,250,000 in state funds.

The bills appropriated $600,000 for Los Angeles county flood control and $400,000 for Santa Ana river flood control, both of which Vandegrift wanted reduced. Another measure gave $150,000 to the City of San Francisco for a livestock exposition building, which the finance director requested a veto.
Both these acts, mind you, were in the face of Vandegrift's warning that the governor couldn't keep his campaign pledge not to increase state expenditures, and that the present state surplus of 30 millions would be reduced to approximately 13 millions.
Retorted the governor: "The integrity of this administration is at stake. I was present when Mr. Vandegrift promised the authors of these bills that he wouldn't oppose them if they got through the legislature."
Flareback of the recent bitter campaign waged against the appointment of Rheba Crawford Splivalo, "Angel of Broadway," as state director of social welfare was seen in the announcement of Miss Mabel Webb of Sacramento that she expects to quit her job as secretary of the state social welfare board.
This was just what Mrs. Splivalo wanted. Miss Weed, an appointee of Governor Young, was frankly opposed to "The Angel." Last week the new director asked the attorney general if she were "boss" of the department, with the right to hire and fire. She was told she held no power over Miss Webb, who was hired by the social welfare board. Nevertheless, Miss Weed expects to resign.
Hugh McKevitt, San Francisco attorney and former president of that city's civil service commission, was made member of the state civil service commission when Mrs. Elizabeth Eshleman, Berkeley, resigned to attend to home and business duties. McKevitt is also attorney for the state highway commission.
It was good news to Dr. George C. Sabichi, Bakersfield, when Dr. Giles S. Porter, director of public health, announced he would make Dr. Sabichi, assistant director next November. This will be made possible by an impending resignation and two term expirations on the state board of health, giving Governor Rolph control.
Asserted plans of the governor to oust Captain G. T. January of San Francisco as member of the state pilot commission to make a place for his son, James Rolph III, were blasted by the ruling of the attorney general, who held the commissioners were appointed by the governor with consent of the senate, hence couldn't be removed without concurrence of that body.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.
For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.
If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.
It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.
But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute.

Ton for ton . . . . mile for mile
Chevrolet six-cylinder trucks cost less to operate

CHEVROLET It is a matter of record, among more and more large fleet operators, that Chevrolet six-cylinder trucks give a lower transportation cost than any other truck of equal capacity in the market.
These firms are finding, through experience, that Chevrolet sedan deliveries are capable of 20 miles or better, to the gallon of gasoline; that Chevrolet 1½-ton trucks are making fuel records which are relatively just as high. That it costs very little to keep Chevrolet trucks in first-class working order. That Chevrolet service charges on both parts and labor are exceptionally low. That the active life of Chevrolet trucks extends well past the 50,000 mileage mark.
To place your hauling on a minimum-cost basis—and keep it there—put Chevrolet six-cylinder trucks to work. A wide variety of Chevrolet-built bodies is now available. And delivered prices of Chevrolet trucks, complete and ready for work, are based on low chassis-cost and low body-cost, plus only reasonable charges for handling and financing.

Increased Interest In Reading Room

The June meeting of the board of trustees of the Redwood City public library was held on Tuesday evening in the Central school building. The May report, submitted by Miss Wilhelmina Harper, librarian, showed a monthly book circulation of 7,694 volumes. This is an increase of 1,818 volumes over the same month last year. There were 4,952 adult books issued and 2,742 books to children.

The records show that by now close to one-half of the population are active library users and this number grows steadily greater. During the past year, men, women and children have been joining the library at the rate of 125 per month.

During May the reading room attendance numbered 1,385 persons who came for study and magazine reading. There were 226 reference questions looked up and 225 new books were added and processed.

For the benefit of those who are interested in reading a variety of entertaining books during vacation time, the Public Library has recently added the following works of fiction which are now ready for circulation:

"The Sophisticates," Atherton; "Orange Valley," Baker; "No Walls of Jasper," Cannan; "Rich and Strange," Collins; "The Front Page Mystery," Dean; "Snobs," Dormie; "Father," Elizabeth; "The Weigher of Souls," Maurios; "Oklahoma Town," Milburn; "Taxi", Miller; "The Orchid", Nathan; "The Dogs", Nazhivin; "Found Drowned," Phillpotts; "The Sun in His Own House," Piper; "Fay's Circus", Prichard; "White Fawn", Prouty; "The Road Back", Remarque; "Eskimo", French; "The Light That Never Was", Gerould; "The Winding Lane", Gibbs; "Ambrose Holt and Family", Glaspell; "Wild Grape", Hauck; "Topsy", Herbert; "Praying Monkey", Holt; "A Hair Divides", Houghton; "No One Man", Hughes; "A Richer Dust", Jameson; "Solange Stories", Jesse; 'Gold", Kelland; "Lady Helena", Leroux; "Black Ghost of the Highway", Linnell; 'Square Circle", Mackail; "Three Steeples", Macleod; "Little Town", Mann; "House of Darkness", Scroggins; "The Sandling Case", Tracy; "Calendar", Wallace; "The Pure in Heart", Werfel; "An End to Mirth", Williams.

Due to the present interest in Africa, aroused by the recent "Trader Horn" picture at the Sequoia Theatre, the library lists the following books that are descriptive of the country and are available for readers:

"Jungle Portrait", Akeley; "To Africa With the Migratory Birds", Berg; "Livingstone", Campbell; ';Call of the Veld", Flemming; "Black Journey", Haardt; "Trader Horn", Horn; "Africa View", Huxley; "Lion", Johnson; "Safari, Johnson; "Jungles Preferred", Miller; 'Fire of Desert Folk", Ossendowski; "Africa Game Trails", Roosevelt; "Jungle Gods", Von Hoffman.

Some excellent books on Africa jungle and desert life for young people are "In Desert and Wilderness", by Sienkiewicz; "In the Endless Sands", by Scott; and "Stories of the Gorilla Country", by Du Chaillu.

Debt Limitation To Save Millions In State's Taxes

By MELVIN LORD

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 18—(UP)—The new debt limitation law effective August 15 will save millions of dollars for California taxpayers as well as prevent the virtual confiscation of property.

This is the opinion of California tax experts regarding the bill just signed by Governor Rolph designed to limit special assessments to not more than 50 per cent of the true value of the property.

In addition to the actual debt limitation, other safeguards are provided, including provisions for an investigation to determine if the creation of the assessment district is warranted.

This preliminary probe must determine the estimated cost of the project; the apportionment of the assessments based on estimated cost; the amount of overlapping assessments; the assessed value of the lands and a computation of their true value.

Under terms of the measure, notice of time and place of hearing on the project must be sent to each owner 30 days before the hearing. A majority protest at that hearing or at any time thereafter bars any portion of the work to which there are objections.

Proponents of the bill claim that it will relieve "seriously overburdened land where over-assessments have resulted, in some cases, in actual confiscation."

According to reports, glaring examples of such conditions have been in existence in San Diego, San Luis Obispo, and Los Angeles counties and throughout the San Joaquin and Imperial valleys.

In many cases the assessments have run as high as 600 per cent of the assessed value of the property. This has proved to be particularly unfortunate in the smaller communities where one unsound assessment project can make the entire community insolvent.
